Explanatory information

Application Allowance for lack of basic grant

General

If you studied for 12 months or more at a higher education institution (university of applied sciences (HBO) or research university) while the student loan system was in place (September 2015 - August 2023), you did not receive a basic grant during that period. Students will receive an allowance for this: the 'allowance for lack of basic grant'. The allowance will be offset against your

Conditions

- You were entitled to student finance, but not eligible for a basic grant.
- You were entitled to student finance for at least 12 months of the official duration of your official programme. Whether or not you applied for student finance is irrelevant.
- You obtained, or will obtain, your degree within the applicable diploma period.
- The degree you obtained, or will obtain, is for a recognised Bachelor's programme, Master's programme or associate degree.

Usually no need to apply

If you received student finance for your studies and you meet the conditions, the allowance will be granted to you automatically upon obtaining your diploma. If you did not receive student finance, you must apply for the allowance yourself. In circumstances where we are unable to grant part of the allowance automatically, you will need to apply for that part of the allowance yourself. DUO will notify you by letter if this applies to you.

Re: 1.5 Your bank account number

You need to complete this question only if your bank account number is not already known. If you are still receiving student finance or lifelong learning credit, and you enter a new account number here, the upcoming payments will be made to this new account number.

Re: 2.1 Your degree programme

If you followed a study programme in the Netherlands, we will automatically receive the details from your programme. You can therefore skip the remaining parts of questions 2 and 3.

Re: 3.2 Supporting documents

Please provide a certified copy of your diploma. A certified copy means a copy signed and stamped by your education institution. We may need other supporting documents to assess your application. In that case we will contact you.
